

Alton Towers Resort Hotel transforms lost property process with NotLost

Accommodation at Alton Towers Resort consists of 694 rooms across the resort.

The challenge

Between 750 and 1,000 items of lost property come to one central housekeeping hub for registration and storage every week; where they handle in the region of 100 guest enquiries:

- Each item had to be registered manually into an Excel spreadsheet, with an additional sheet of paper filled out and attached to the item
- Staff could only run broad and unfiltered searches when handling guest enquiries. This often produced inaccurate results
- The analogue nature of the process meant that validating matches and agreeing on return options with guests would take multiple phone calls/e-mails back and forth
- The end-to-end operation was inefficient and absorbed a large amount of staff time
- There was a lack of accurate auditing
- Improvements were required in order to protect loss

Their ambition was to reduce the time spent on handling and processing lost property, while improving their guest experience by responding more promptly and accurately to all guest enquiries.

The results

The amount of time registering items and dealing with guest enquiries about lost property has been reduced by 68%.

The solution

NotLost implemented a state-of-the-art software platform to alleviate the hassle of dealing with lost property. After a single 1-hour onboarding session, staff were able to seamlessly adopt the new process and reported seeing immediate improvements

They now use the NotLost platform on an electronic tablet to quickly upload all found items. A simple photograph is all that is required in order for the system to generate a detailed report.

When handling guest enquiries, staff can use a combination of date-ranges, keyword searches and photos to rapidly locate items. Short call times, accurate responses and the ability to easily email photos for validation help to enhance the guest experience.

Lost property is now handled in a timely and structured manner - it is no longer a distraction for housekeeping staff, and guests are guaranteed an excellent service, in keeping with the Alton Towers Resort brand.

Compared to the old system it's so much quicker. Being able to take pictures, check the item, altering the odd few words on the system and it's done.

Housekeeping Administrator, Alton Towers Resort

What did the team think?

"It's a lot easier when handling guest enquiries, it's quick to search and seeing the picture helps to speed up finding the item instead of searching through Excel."

"Using the system was really straight forward and I was able to pick it up straight away."
